Paul is a leading insolvency practitioner with a wide-ranging experience across a broad spectrum of business types. His professional expertise is based on a sound understanding of accounting practices, a wealth of relevant industry experience, and excellent knowledge of legal issues relating to insolvencies and bankruptcy and highly developed leadership, mediation and interpersonal communication skills.

Paul's experience spans both private and government sectors, including professional assignments at state and federal levels and first-hand experience with a major international accountancy firm.

Paul was the founding director of the highly successful IT company, TurnAround Solutions Pty Ltd, which provides high level services to the Australian Taxation Office and major corporate clients.

He is actively involved in a varied range of enterprises and organisations within the Tasmanian community, making his skills and expertise available through leadership and advisory roles with community organisations.

Paul is currently the Tasmanian member liaison officer for the Institute of Chartered Accountants and in this role networks with all CAs in the State. This has proved an invaluable asset in keeping in touch with emerging issues and trends within the profession and in industry generally.

He has been involved in the insolvency industry for 22 years and is an official liquidator as well as a registered trustee in bankruptcy. Paul is a past National President of the Insolvency Practitioners Association.
